

WATERTIGHT CONNECTOR-MODULE ASSEMBLY

Abstract

The invention, sealed connector-module assembly, refers to interchangeable module assemblies of the type in which terminals and cables are introduced with are subsequently introduced in connector devices. These connectors will be subsequently put into contact with other devices, for example, distribution boxes, which also have a number of terminals which come into contact with the terminals introduced in the sealed modules.